

Heatlie Island Gourmet Elite

Unique features of the Island Gourmet Elite

- It can be installed into any benchtop - even if combustible

This barbecue is unique because it is able to be installed directly into a bench and bench top made from combustible materials. This is because the design of the bbq deflects heat away from these critical areas. This means it can be dropped into any standard kitchen bench, eliminating the need for granite or stone benchtops. Granite, stone and similar materials will remain the preferred option for many Outdoor Kitchen owners, giving a look of sophistication and quality, to match the same characteristics in the Heatlie Island Gourmet Elite.

- Designed to fit into standard benchtops

This bbq will fit into a standard 600mm benchtop. Another bonus for Outdoor Kitchen owners who have had their kitchen built but are yet to choose their bbq, and easy for builders and cabinet makers too, eliminating the need for a non-standard bench to be manufactured.

- Flame failure as standard

This safety feature is often a standard requirement for many Outdoor Kitchen installations. It is now included in this new product as part of the gas tap configuration and is designed to cut the gas supply if the flame is extinguished by a gust of wind.

- Auto ignition

As the knob on the Island Gourmet Elite is turned, the piezo ignition automatically lights the bbq. No additional buttons to push and maintain. Easy, no fuss and works every time.

- Easy to clean

The Island Gourmet Elite features a lift out plate and a separate fat container which allows easy cleaning while eliminating the risk of a flare up from dripping fat. The plate can be lifted out, pressure cleaned or scrubbed, then easily replaced for your next bbq. The fat container can be easily cleaned out also.

- LPG or Natural Gas ... and Universal Gas

Bottled LPG and piped Natural Gas is able to be used safely on the Island Gourmet Elite. There is a small additional cost for the Natural Gas version. Approval has been gained from the AGA (Australian Gas Association) for the use of Universal Gas, allowing this product to be used in other countries.
